TREASURY SECRETARY RUBIN, NEW YORK FED PRESIDENT MCDONOUGH, U.S. TREASURER WITHROW TO MARK ISSUANCE OF NEW SERIES $100 BILL

U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert E. Rubin, New York Federal Reserve Bank President William J. McDonough and U.S. Treasurer Mary Ellen Withrow will mark the issuance of the redesigned U.S. $100 bill Monday, March 25, 1996 at 10:30 am at the Federal Reserve in New York City.

Shipments of the new notes to depository institutions from Federal Reserve banks and branches begin March 25.

They will be joined by students from Adlai Stevenson High School's Academy of Finance Program, who will participate in a mini-lesson and question and answer session with Secretary Rubin, President McDonough and Treasury Assistant Secretary (Financial Markets) Darcy Bradbury, reflecting students' background research on currency issues.

The event and press availability will be take place in the 12th Floor Conference Center of the Federal Reserve at 33 Liberty Street, Manhattan.

New $100 notes will be available at the press conference to members of the media who wish to purchase them for cash.
